

The Major Oak of Sherwood Forest

In the story of Robin Hood, the merry men often gathered at a particular oak tree in Sherwood Forest. Some people say that Robin Hood used the hollow centre of the oak tree to hide from the Sheriff of Nottingham and his men.

The picture above shows the tree that some people say is the one from the Robin Hood legend. The tree is hollow and big enough to hold around seven people!