

Days of make-believe

Be whoever you want to be – until it's time for tea!

On Monday I was a knight, charging into battle
And it was up to me, yes, just me
To fight the fiercest dragon you ever did see.
I had my sword and my shield, and my trusty horse – Neville.
But then... 'Alice, dear – it's time for tea.'
'Oh, Mum!'

On Tuesday I was a pirate, sailing across the sea
And it was up to me, yes, just me
To find the treasure chest's missing key.
I had my eye-patch and my compass, and my parrot – Roger.
But then... 'Alice, dear – it's time for tea.'
'Oh, Mum!'

On Wednesday I was a wizard, casting wondrous spells
And it was up to me, yes, just me
To rescue the princess from a giant named Smee.
I had my hat and my wand, and my cat – Abracadabra.
But then... 'Alice, dear – it's time for tea.'
'Oh, Mum!'

On Thursday I was a superhero, flying through the sky
And it was up to me, yes, just me
To save the city from a 50-foot flea.
I had my cape and my mask, and my sidekick – Super Dog.
But then... 'Alice, dear – it's time for tea.'
'Oh, Mum!'

On Friday I was an astronaut, blasting into space
And it was up to me, yes, just me
To make friends with the aliens on Planet Zeeg.
I had my suit and my helmet, and my robot – Max.
But then... 'Alice, dear – it's time for tea.'
'Oh, Mum!'

On Saturday I was an explorer, trampling through the jungle
And it was up to me, yes, just me
To find the lost city of Pukka Peepee.
I had my camera and my binoculars, and my monkey – Arthur
But then... 'Alice, dear – it's time for tea.'
'Oh, Mum!'

On Sunday I was just plain Alice.
'It's tea-time, dear.'
'Is it? YIPPEE!'

© Michael Ward

ILLUSTRATION © GAYNOR BERRY