

Name _____ Date _____

STOLEN MONA LISA FOUND

POSTER 1

Name games

The thief who stole the Mona Lisa created an alias or a false name. He took the artist's first name and added his own first name as a surname.

Leonardo ~~da Vinci~~ + Vincenzo ~~Perugia~~ = Leonardo Vincenzo.

Imagine that you were a thief about to steal something famous and create your own alias, following the same pattern. For example, if your name is John Smith and you are going to steal a football shirt belonging to Wayne Rooney, your alias would be Wayne John.

Name relating to object + First name =

--	--	--

Now think of an attention-grabbing headline for a news story about your theft: (eg, No Wayne, No Gain!)

Now create some alias names for your friends or family, followed by a headline, in the same way.

Name relating to object + First name =

--	--	--

Story headline:

Name relating to object + First name =

--	--	--

Story headline:
